Because I am not testing my children's scissor skills when using lapbooks, I create minibooks with information in them already and for using after we study the topic. Because I do want them at certain times to write in facts, I also create a blank minibook to write in their own well researched facts. Two choices are here for you. The first minibook has facts in it already and the second one is blank. Trifold on dotted lines. Glue to your page.
